Second pregnant woman, baby killed in 'outrage'

Olney. A pregnant woman was gunned down early Wednesday outside a deli, and her boyfriend's condition is critical.

Residents talk on the corner where a pregnant woman and her unborn child were killed on Tuesday night in Olney. / CHARLES MOSTOLLER, METRO

The day after a pregnant woman and her baby were slain in a shooting outside an Olney deli that left her boyfriend in critical condition, neighbors expressed anger and sorrow over the violence.

The victims in the shooting around 1 a.m. Wednesday morning outside a deli at 20th and Nedro streets had not been identified as of press time.

But neighbors said the female victim was 25 years old, and the male victim was her boyfriend. Neighbors said they had one child together, and were expecting their second.

It's the second time a pregnant woman and child have been shot to death in two weeks.

"It's an outrage," said Santee Weddington, 44, who said he saw the shooting from his window across the street. "I don't feel safe around here anymore."

He described seeing the male survivor run across the sidewalk firing back at the shooter before collapsing wounded, while his car, with the female victim in the front passenger seat, rolled onto the curb in front of the deli and stopped.

Weddington heard about 12 shots, he said. The female victim was reportedly hit six times.

"We have shootings every now and then, but not like this. ... It's at my corner store now, so it's really hit home."

Watson

Cynara Watson, 38, who grew up in the neighborhood, said the shooting has made her feel unsafe.

"Now, I don't want to raise my daughter around here. It's a totally different area from when I was growing up," Watson said. "My neighborhood just changed."

"When I look at the last few days, I feel sad in my heart because this has been relatively a decent stable neighborhood," said pastor Willie Singletary, a former Traffic Court judge, who grew up a few doors down from where the shooting took place, citing four homicides in the past three days in the area.

"You got, Sunday morning, four o'clock, a double-shooting, double-homicide [outside a Fern Rock social club], you got Monday afternoon, at three o'clock, a shooting, in a mix of kids getting out of school [outside Albert Einstein Medical Center]. And you got last night, a mother and a child, and another person being shot. It's a tragedy," Singletary said.

The shooting closely follows the death of Megan Doto, 26, who was eight months pregnant when she was killed by a stray bullet in Frankford on Sept. 14. Devon Guisherd, 27, is wanted by police in connection with Doto's death.

Two fatal shootings

Doto's baby was delivered in an emergency C-section, but only lived for 12 hours.

- The baby of the woman who died early Wednesday was also delivered, and just lived for an hour.
- As of press time no arrests have been reported in the death of the unnamed female victim in Olney.

Gay couple attack suspects surrender

The two men and one woman who were wanted for their involvement in the gay couple attack near Rittenhouse turned themselves in Wednesday morning.

In a statement, police said "numerous anonymous callers identified" the suspects, who are Philip Williams, 24, Kathryn Knott, 24 and Kevin Harrigan, 26 — all from Bucks County. Their mug shots were released Wednesday afternoon.

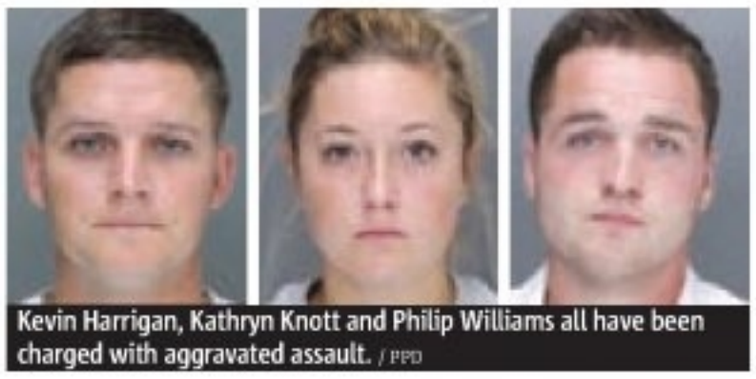
They are all charged with aggravated assault, criminal conspiracy, simple assault and recklessly endangering another person for the Sept. 11 incident that occurred around 10:45 p.m. and left two men in need of medical attention, with one requiring surgery to have his jaw wired shut.

Visit Metro.us to see what lawyer Fortunato Perri Jr. said of Williams.

Police say that the male victims, 28 and 27, were approached by the suspects on the 1600 block of Chancellor Street.

"As the group approached the complainants they made disparaging remarks about their sexual orientation. The group then attacked the complainants holding them while other members of the group punched them in the face, head and chest," police said in a press release.

"During the assault one of the complainants dropped his bag containing his cellphone, wallet and credit cards. When police approached one of the suspects picked the bag up from the ground."



Kevin Harrigan, Kathryn Knott and Philip Williams all have been charged with aggravated assault. / PPD

An article on Storify highlights the Twitter profile of Knott, who in the article is quoted posting tweets that include comments mocking gay people and foreigners.

Cigarette tax bill signed, tax starts Oct. 1

A day after the Pennsylvania state Senate approved the Philadelphia cigarette tax, and two days after the House of Representatives approved it, Gov. Tom Corbett signed the bill authorizing the surtax on Wednesday.

The tax, which goes into effect on Oct. 1, could bring in $85 to $90 million a year for the School District of Philadelphia, officials have said.

"I'm actually smiling and celebrating," School District Superintendent William Hite said at the bill signing. METRO

Churches in city to protect immigrants from deportation

Philadelphia. Two churches officially offered sanctuary for immigrants facing deportation.

Pastor Aldo Siahaan called for an end to deportations. / CHARLES MOSTOLLER, METRO

On Wednesday, leaders from two churches pledged to step up and offer sanctuary to immigrants facing deportation.

"This is the time for the church to open its doors," said Pastor Aldo Siahaan, of the Indonesian Mennonite Philadelphia Praise Center church in South Philadelphia. "This is a sacred place — come."

New Sanctuary Movement organized this plan to defy current immigration laws after President Barack Obama delayed his vague promise of "executive action" on immigration by the end of summer to an unknown date.

Many believed Obama planned to use an executive order to institute "amnesty" for illegal immigrants currently in the U.S., exempting them from deportation.

"When we heard that plan, we pray, we pray, we pray," Siahaan said. "When it got delayed, we still put our faith in God — not to the president, not to the country. But as a human, we feel sad, we feel disappointed, as to why this ended like this. Why is this still going on? Why [is] the president not using this specific action?"

No immigrants are taking sanctuary in the churches at this point but if they face a deportation order, this option will now be available.

Tukkun Olam Chavurah, a Germantown-based faith organization, will also provide sanctuary — meaning long-term residence — for immigrants in need.

"Jewish tradition demands that we welcome people into our community," said Rabbi Linda Holtzman. "The Jewish community is largely either the children or grandchildren of immigrants, immigrants who, if they didn't make it to the United States were often killed, and that's certainly true in my family."

Nine other cities are establishing similar sanctuaries, including Chicago and Newark.

Quoted

"From 2007 to 2010, for three years almost every single week, one of the members of the community, for sure [was deported]. For three years, we live in fear." Siahaan

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27TH
FRED BEANS HISTORIC USED CAR SALE

Doylestown, PA – Fred Beans, CEO and founder of the Fred Beans Automotive Group located in Doylestown, PA, has announced a ONE DAY SALE on Saturday, September 27th at 9:00AM, where pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. This sale is being held due to overwhelming public demand.

Cars will be clearly marked, so come early for the best selection. This is a ONE DAY ONLY sale designed to get the local community driving again.

Fred Beans' pre-owned inventory levels need to be reduced to make room for shipments of new models arriving daily. As a result, all 8 Fred Beans Doylestown locations are selling these overstocked pre-owned vehicles to the public at drastic discounts in an attempt to clear excess inventory.

In addition to this huge variety of pre-owned vehicles, the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships in Doylestown features new Ford, Lincoln, Mitsubishi, Dodge, Chrysler, Jeep, Hyundai, Nissan, Subaru, Chevrolet, Cadillac, Buick, and GMC vehicles.

Fred Beans believes reviving the economy starts at home, and changing things locally will lead to changing things nationally.

In addition to the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships' extra inventory, additional vehicles have been acquired for this sale at incredible prices from various banks, repossession companies, auto auctions, credit unions, lease companies, and rental companies.

The sale will make pre-owned vehicles available for as low as $999, prices not normally offered to the general public. According to Fred Beans, "We want to give our customers a reason to believe in the local economy again. Someone has to look out for their best interest."

Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM to inspect the entire inventory and find the car that's right for them. Every vehicle will be cleaned, detailed, and fully prepared for instant delivery. On the evening of September 26th, after the close of business, Mr. Beans and his team will mark the special sale price on each and every vehicle.

Because Fred Beans' customers are feeling the credit crunch right now, the Fred Beans Automotive Group has given the dealerships' financing managers the resources necessary to get most customers' credit approved on the spot.

The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships has $10 million in lending power, the result of over 50 years of strong relationships with the area's leading lenders. This means that customers with "less-than-perfect" credit history can have their credit approved and drive home a quality pre-owned car, truck, or SUV by lunchtime on Saturday.

Even if a customer's credit report shows a bankruptcy, divorce, tax lien, slow payment history, missed payment, or repossession, or if a customer is a first-time buyer, Fred Beans may get them approved.

This special ONE DAY ONLY sale will be held at all 8 Fred Beans Doylestown locations this Saturday, September 27th, at 9:00AM.

Pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM for the start of inspection. Incredible sale prices, starting as low as $999, will be posted no later than 8:00AM. All vehicles will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships is expecting a high volume of customers for this sale, so be sure to reserve your spot early.

Customers wishing to trade in a vehicle are asked to bring their title or payment book for immediate delivery. Fred Beans will even pay off your trade-in in full, no matter how much you still owe on it.*

Most of these surplus pre-owned vehicles will get sent directly to auto auctions for liquidation. So if anyone has been thinking about purchasing a good, clean, dependable pre-owned car, truck, van, or sport utility vehicle, don't miss this special ONE DAY ONLY sale.

Courtesy transportation is available from all local airports, train stations and bus depots.

For more information about this sale and directions to our locations, please visit us online at www.999sale.com or call 866-920-9612

Go to Metro.us to see the full surveillance video. / PPD

Police are hunting an armed robber who struck a deli in Southwest Philly — but the incident didn't disturb a child who was seated at the register playing video games while a handgun was waved around, just inches from his or her face.

The child is seen playing the game on a tablet while a female cashier is forced to empty the register by a male pointing a handgun at her, yelling.

The incident occurred Sept. 19 at J&A Deli on the 6100 block of Elmwood Avenue in Elmwood around 5 p.m.

Two women and two small children were shopping in the store when the suspect enters the deli. The female customers stare at the man for a bit before he pulls out his gun, at which point they flee, taking the children.

The suspect demanded money from the cashier while pointing a gun at her, and took an undisclosed amount of cash.

One surveillance camera angle shows a child sitting next to the cashier playing on the tablet, never looking up, even as the suspect is shouting and swearing at the cashier, waving a handgun around.

The suspect is believed to be a black male, age 15 to 17, short with a thin build and was last seen wearing a two-tone hooded sweatshirt with white stars, dark blue jeans and black shoes. SAM NEWHOUSE

In speech, Obama warns ISIS to leave battlefield

Targets. Before Obama spoke, US-led airstrikes for the third time this week pounded Islamic State targets.

President Obama / GETTY IMAGES

President Barack Obama used his annual speech to the United Nations on Wednesday to warn Islamic State fighters to "leave the battlefield while they can" and asked the world to back a U.S.-led campaign against the militants in Iraq and Syria.

In a speech to the U.N. General Assembly in New York, Obama said Islamic State must be destroyed, as British Prime Minister David Cameron weighed whether his country would join the military drive that includes U.S. Arab allies.

Obama used graphic language to condemn Islamic State's methods, saying the militants had used rape as a weapon of war, gunned down children, dumped bodies in mass graves, and beheaded their victims.

"No God condones this terror," he said. REUTERS

ISIS advances despite strikes

The strikes did not halt the fighters' advance in a Kurdish area where fleeing refugees told of villages burnt and captives beheaded.

Islamist militants in Algeria boasted in a video they had beheaded a French hostage captured on Sunday to punish Paris for joining air strikes against Islamic State in Iraq.

Syrian Kurds said Islamic State had responded to U.S. attacks by intensifying its assault near the Turkish border in northern Syria. REUTERS

Violence. After fire at slain teen's memorial, protests in Ferguson

Five people were arrested and two police officers injured in renewed violence overnight on the streets of Ferguson, Missouri, sparked by a fire that destroyed a shrine to a black teenager killed by police.

Shots were fired and rocks and bottles thrown at officers in clashes between police and more than 100 protesters, which took place late Tuesday into the predawn hours of Wednesday. One area business was looted and vandalized, and a restaurant was set on fire, officials said.

"This behavior will not be tolerated," Missouri Highway Patrol Capt. Ron Johnson said at a news conference. Johnson was appointed last month by Missouri Gov. Jay Nixon to coordinate law enforcement efforts to quell unrest in Ferguson. "We're out here trying to protect the community."

Ferguson has seen weeks of racially charged protests and violence following the Aug. 9 killing of an unarmed black teen by a white police officer.

Fresh anger erupted when a fire early Tuesday morning destroyed one of two makeshift memorials for the teen. REUTERS

More than half of Americans believe that brands should drop their sponsorship deals with the National Football League over its handling of players accused of domestic violence, according to a Reuters/Ipsos poll.

Still, Rohler is watching pro football games on television. "It hasn't gotten to the point to where I would not watch it," he said.

He is not alone. Nearly 80 percent of respondents in the Reuters/Ipsos poll said they plan to continue watching or attending football games organized by the NFL, which reaps some $9 billion in annual revenue. REUTERS

Apple. IPhone rollout marred by 'bendgate,' dropped cell service

The iPhone 6 / GETTY IMAGES

Two new Apple products hit speed bumps on Wednesday: iPhone 6 Plus buyers discovered their phones can bend when placed in back pockets, and the company pulled its latest mobile operating system after reports of dropped cellular service.

"Bendgate," as the problem has already been dubbed on social media sites, is a reminder of 2010's "antennagate," when iPhone 4 users reported a design flaw that caused dropped calls.

Apple did not comment on the bending-phone reports. But it did announce that it was investigating reports of an issue with an update of its iOS 8 operating system and in the meantime had pulled the version designated 8.0.1.

The bendable-phone situation might prove particularly troubling for those who wear skinny jeans, according to reports on Facebook and Twitter. The phrase "Your pants are too tight for your phone" had already received hundreds of mentions Wednesday.

Some say the device, which has a lightweight aluminum shell, is more malleable than expected, but that might fall short of a design flaw, according to analysts.

Study

Telecommuting can improve performance

While telecommuting, most employees perform at least as well as in the office, and some actually do better, according to a new study.

"We have many reasons to expect that telecommuters should work as well or better than others," said Ravi S. Gajendran, professor of business at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Working remotely saves time commuting and putting together an outfit for the day, he said. And without office cues that the workday has ended, people are liable to stay "plugged-in" until much later, without even realizing it, he said. REUTERS

Biosafety. Hospitals in the US unprepared to handle Ebola waste

U.S. hospitals may be unprepared to safely dispose of the infectious waste generated by any Ebola virus disease patient to arrive unannounced in the country, potentially putting the wider community at risk, biosafety experts said.

Waste management companies are refusing to haul away the soiled sheets and virus-spattered protective gear associated with treating the disease, citing federal guidelines that require Ebola-related waste to be handled in special packaging by people with hazardous materials training, infectious disease and biosafety experts told Reuters.

Many U.S. hospitals are unaware of the regulatory snafu, which experts say could threaten their ability to treat any person who develops Ebola in the U.S. after coming from an infected region. It can take as long as 21 days to develop Ebola symptoms after exposure.

Some waste haulers may refuse to handle Ebola waste. / GETTY IMAGES

The issue created problems for Emory University Hospital in Atlanta, the first institution to care for Ebola patients here. As Emory was treating two U.S. missionaries who were evacuated from West Africa in August, their waste hauler, Stericycle, initially refused to handle it. Stericycle declined comment.

Ebola symptoms can include copious amounts of vomiting and diarrhea, and nurses and doctors at Emory donned full hazmat suits to protect themselves. Bags of waste quickly began to pile up. REUTERS

Quoted

"At its peak, we were up to 40 bags a day of medical waste, which took a huge tax on our waste management system."

Dr. Aneesh Mehta, of Emory Hospital, told colleagues at a medical meeting earlier this month

Love lockdown. Paris paramours foil city's attempt to clear bridges

A Paris push to rid the city of the thousands of "love locks" weighing down its bridges is being thwarted by tourists' relentless romance.

For years, visiting couples have hung brass padlocks on the iron grills lining the city's bridges to symbolize their undying love — they write their names on the locks, then toss the key into the Seine below.

About 700,000 love locks are added every few months and Paris officials say they are damaging the bridges and threatening safety because of the added weight.

In a bid to stamp out the practice, officials last week began installing thick plastic panels on the Pont des Arts, the pedestrian bridge linking the Louvre to the Left Bank, depriving lovers of the grillwork needed to attach their locks.

However, the experiment is not working. Tourists continued to affix locks to the remaining already-overloaded grills.

REUTERS

Substitutes

In trying to balance safety and cultural heritage with the demands of tourism, city hall began a social media push last month called "Love without Locks."

- Lovers are invited to post a "selfie" of themselves on the bridges or at other spots on Twitter or Instagram with the hashtag #lovewithoutlocks.

Rosie seeing red over 'The View'

THE WORD

Ned Ehrbar takes on the world of gossip.

NED EHRBAR
@Nedrick
ned.ehrbar@metro.us

The members of the new lineup of "The View" have barely started working together and already Rosie O'Donnell is reportedly eyeing the exits once again, according to Radar Online. "Rosie O'Donnell was ready to walk when Rosie Perez and Nicolle Wallace were announced. She felt like it wasn't the show she signed up for and ABC sold her a bill of goods that never happened," a source says. "When Rosie Perez was given the seat and Whoopi [Goldberg] didn't end up leaving, it [became clear it wouldn't be] Rosie O'Donnell's show. She feels like they shoved the new panel down her throat after the disastrous chemistry test process."

"The View" cast is reportedly not this close all of the time, though we do like to imagine that Rosie Perez is constantly trying to lightly touch Nicolle Wallace's wrist with her pointer finger all of the time. / LOU ROCCO, ABC

Wiz Khalifa and Amber Rose: That didn't last long

Amber Rose has reportedly filed for divorce from Wiz Khalifa after a year of marriage, TMZ reports, and it looks like it will be anything but amicable. Rose filed earlier this week, citing irreconcilable differences and seeking full custody of their 19-month-old son, Sebastian. Rumors of infidelity have dogged the couple, and the filing makes clear that they have a prenup. What is also clear is that Khalifa likely won't be able to grope Rose like in this pic.

Is there anything left to know about Harry Styles?

It's hard to imagine that there's anything left to reveal about One Direction, after having the start of their career heavily documented on a reality show, being the subject of a Morgan Spurlock-directed documentary and being incessant oversharers on social media, but just in case, there's now a book coming out. The five guys have "written" an "autobiography" called "Who We Are," that promises "an unprecedented insight into all of it." Is nothing private for these guys?

Talking points

'Hey, girl. You are a handful.'

It's been nearly two weeks since Eva Mendes and Ryan Gosling welcomed their new daughter into the world, and apparently the whole thing is taking some getting used to. "They're both great, but exhausted," a source tells E! News. "They know it's going to be a little while before the baby adjusts to a schedule." Gosling, for his part, is reportedly "infatuated with the baby," making all other babies in the world seethe with jealousy.

Apple pay day makes every day Dre Day

The headphone business has been very good to Dr. Dre. The producer tops Forbes' 2014 list of highest paid hip-hop acts, pulling in a staggering $620 million, thanks mostly to Apple's purchase of the Beats by Dre headphone line. That's more than the income of the next 24 artists on the list combined. Jay Z and Diddy share second place, each at $60 million, followed by Drake at $33 million. Meanwhile, amid speculation that Apple planned to shut down Beats Music, the company did allow that the service may be folded into iTunes.

THE CDC RECOMMENDS ROUTINE VACCINATION OF 11 OR 12 YEAR OLDS AGAINST HPV-RELATED CANCER AND DISEASES.

THE TIME TO PROTECT THEM IS BEFORE EXPOSURE TO THE VIRUS.

There are about 40 types of human papillomavirus (HPV) that may affect an estimated 75% to 80% of males and females in their lifetime. For most, HPV will clear on its own. However, there's no way to predict who will and won't clear the virus. For those who don't clear certain types, HPV could cause cervical, vaginal, and vulvar cancers in females and anal cancer and genital warts in both males and females.

The CDC recommends routine vaccination for boys and girls ages 11 or 12 against HPV-related cancer and diseases.

GARDASIL® [Human Papillomavirus Quadrivalent (Types 6, 11, 16, and 18) Vaccine, Recombinant] is the only HPV vaccine that helps protect against 4 types of HPV. In girls and young women ages 9 to 26, GARDASIL helps protect against 2 types of HPV that cause about 75% of cervical cancer cases, 70% of vaginal cancer cases, and up to 50% of vulvar cancer cases. In males and females ages 9 to 26, GARDASIL helps protect against about 80% of anal cancer cases and about 90% of genital warts cases.

GARDASIL may not fully protect everyone, nor will it protect against diseases caused by other HPV types or against diseases not caused by HPV. GARDASIL does not prevent all types of cervical cancer, so it's important for women to continue routine cervical cancer screenings.

GARDASIL does not treat cancer or genital warts.

GARDASIL is given as 3 injections over 6 months.

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

Anyone who is allergic to the ingredients of GARDASIL, including those severely allergic to yeast, should not receive the vaccine. GARDASIL is not for women who are pregnant.

The side effects include pain, swelling, itching, bruising, and redness at the injection site, headache, fever, nausea, dizziness, vomiting, and fainting. Fainting can happen after getting GARDASIL. Sometimes people who faint can fall and hurt themselves. For this reason, your child's health care professional may ask your child to sit or lie down for 15 minutes after he or she gets GARDASIL. Some people who faint might shake or become stiff. This may require evaluation or treatment by your child's health care professional.

Only a doctor or health care professional can decide if GARDASIL is right for your son or daughter.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Please read the Patient Information on the adjacent page for more detailed information.

Talk to your child's doctor about GARDASIL.

Patient Information about GARDASIL® (pronounced "gard-Ah-sill")

Generic name: [Human Papillomavirus Quadrivalent (Types 6, 11, 16, and 18) Vaccine, Recombinant]

Read this information with care before getting GARDASIL.[1] You (the person getting GARDASIL) will need 3 doses of the vaccine. It is important to read this leaflet when you get each dose. This leaflet does not take the place of talking with your health care provider about GARDASIL.

What is GARDASIL?
GARDASIL is a vaccine (injection/shot) that is used for girls and women 9 through 26 years of age to help protect against the following diseases caused by Human Papillomavirus (HPV):

- Cervical cancer
- Vulvar and vaginal cancers
- Anal cancer
- Genital warts
- Precancerous cervical, vaginal, vulvar, and anal lesions

GARDASIL is used for boys and men 9 through 26 years of age to help protect against the following diseases caused by HPV:

- Anal cancer
- Genital warts
- Precancerous anal lesions
  - The diseases listed above have many causes, and GARDASIL only protects against diseases caused by certain kinds of HPV (called Type 6, Type 11, Type 16, and Type 18). Most of the time, these 4 types of HPV are responsible for the diseases listed above.
  - GARDASIL cannot protect you from a disease that is caused by other types of HPV, other viruses, or bacteria.
  - GARDASIL does not treat HPV infection.
  - You cannot get HPV or any of the above diseases from GARDASIL.

What important information about GARDASIL should I know?

- You should continue to get routine cervical cancer screening.
- GARDASIL may not fully protect everyone who gets the vaccine.
- GARDASIL will not protect against HPV types that you already have.

Who should not get GARDASIL?
You should not get GARDASIL if you have, or have had:

- an allergic reaction after getting a dose of GARDASIL.
- a severe allergic reaction to yeast, amorphous aluminum hydroxyphosphate sulfate, polysorbate 80.

What should I tell my health care provider before getting GARDASIL?
Tell your health care provider if you:

- are pregnant or planning to get pregnant. GARDASIL is not recommended for use in pregnant women.
- have immune problems, like HIV infection, cancer, or you take medicines that affect your immune system.
- have a fever over 100°F (37.8°C).
- had an allergic reaction to another dose of GARDASIL.
- take any medicines, even those you can buy over the counter.

Your health care provider will help decide if you should get the vaccine.

How is GARDASIL given?
GARDASIL is a shot that is usually given in the arm muscle. You will need 3 shots given on the following schedule:

- Dose 1: at a date you and your health care provider choose.
- Dose 2: 2 months after Dose 1.
- Dose 3: 6 months after Dose 1.

Fainting can happen after getting GARDASIL. Sometimes people who faint can fall and hurt themselves. For this reason, your health care provider may ask you to sit or lie down for 15 minutes after you get GARDASIL. Some people who faint might shake or become stiff. This may require evaluation or treatment by your health care provider.

Make sure that you get all 3 doses on time so that you get the best protection. If you miss a dose, talk to your health care provider.

Can other vaccines and medications be given at the same time as GARDASIL?
GARDASIL can be given at the same time as RECOMBIVAX HB®[1] [hepatitis B vaccine (recombinant)] or Menactra [Meningococcal (Groups A, C, Y and W-135) Polysaccharide Diphtheria Toxoid Conjugate Vaccine] and Adacel [Tetanus Toxoid, Reduced Diphtheria Toxoid and Acellular Pertussis Vaccine Adsorbed (Tdap)].

What are the possible side effects of GARDASIL?
The most common side effects with GARDASIL are:

- pain, swelling, itching, bruising, and redness at the injection site
- headache
- fever
- nausea
- dizziness
- vomiting
- fainting

There was no increase in side effects when GARDASIL was given at the same time as RECOMBIVAX HB [hepatitis B vaccine (recombinant)].

There was more injection-site swelling at the injection site for GARDASIL when GARDASIL was given at the same time as Menactra [Meningococcal (Groups A, C, Y and W-135) Polysaccharide Diphtheria Toxoid Conjugate Vaccine] and Adacel [Tetanus Toxoid, Reduced Diphtheria Toxoid and Acellular Pertussis Vaccine Adsorbed (Tdap)].

Tell your health care provider if you have any of the following problems because these may be signs of an allergic reaction:

- difficulty breathing
- wheezing (bronchospasm)
- hives
- rash

Tell your health care provider if you have:

- swollen glands (neck, armpit, or groin)
- joint pain
- unusual tiredness, weakness, or confusion
- chills
- generally feeling unwell
- leg pain
- shortness of breath
- chest pain
- aching muscles
- muscle weakness
- seizure
- bad stomach ache
- bleeding or bruising more easily than normal
- skin infection

Contact your health care provider right away if you get any symptoms that concern you, even several months after getting the vaccine.

For a more complete list of side effects, ask your health care provider.

What are the ingredients in GARDASIL?
The ingredients are proteins of HPV Types 6, 11, 16, and 18, amorphous aluminum hydroxyphosphate sulfate, yeast protein, sodium chloride, L-histidine, polysorbate 80, sodium borate, and water for injection.

This leaflet is a summary of information about GARDASIL. If you would like more information, please talk to your health care provider or visit www.gardasil.com.

A tale of three women

Shonda Rhimes adds to her TV dominance with "How to Get Away with Murder," starring Viola Davis as a brilliant law professor. The new show was created by Peter Nowalk, who's put in time on both "Grey's Anatomy" and "Scandal," so you can expect a few pages from the Shonda Rhimes playbook. Here's our scoop on the new show, and what it has in common with the other two shows.

"How to Get Away with Murder," starring Viola Davis, center, premieres tonight at 10 on ABC. / ABC / NICOLE RIVELLI

Female lead character

Rhimes always puts a woman in the lead. Meredith Grey and Olivia Pope don't have much in common, but they're complicated, flawed, fascinating women, and Annalise Keating fits that mold. She swings between tough and fragile, with no sign of when she's being honest about how she feels.

Diverse cast

Rhimes so casually and competently fills her shows with people of color that it seems just plain lazy when other shows have all-white casts. In the central cast on "HTGAWM," straight white men are in the minority. With so many other shows relegating people of color to (at best) wacky best friend roles, her casting is always worth praising.

Distinctive costuming

"Grey's" has its foxy scrubs, and "Scandal" is so known for its designer clothing that star Kerry Washington worked with the show's costume designer, Lyn Paolo, on a line of clothing inspired by Olivia Pope's wardrobe. On "HTGAWM," we predict it's Keating's red leather jacket that will be catching eyes.

Increasing darkness

On "Grey's Anatomy," the characters try to be good people. "Scandal"'s character's aren't so concerned with that, and "HTGAWM" continues that trend. In the pilot, half the characters are either helping murderers go free or committing the crimes themselves.

Incriminating relationships

Meredith has a relationship with her boss, and Olivia has that whole situation with the president, but "HTGAWM" has, so far, only troubled romantic relationships. From leveraging secret affairs to inappropriate work relationships, no one is innocent.

The dangers of unbridled ambition

Both "Grey's" and "Scandal" are about people climbing to the top. "HTGAWM" is just as concerned about the cost of ambition. No one on this show is here to make friends.

Building a better

Three-for-one.
Disco Biscuits find new ways to get from point A to point B, and not just in song.

Disco Biscuits come home this weekend. / BRANTLEY GUTIERREZ

When performing a song, the Disco Biscuits do not necessarily start at the beginning.

"Nobody ever thought to play a song backwards," says Biscuits bassist Marc Brownstein. "By backwards, we mean play the end of the song first and then the beginning of the song second. Is there any reason to do that beyond just being different? Yes — there's an enormous reason. In the Disco Biscuits world, we like to seamlessly go from point A to point B. We like to do it in a way that will create the most energy."

The goal, Brownstein explains, is to not stop the flow. "What we've found was when we were in the jam of song A and we wanted to go into a different song ... we'd try to work our way to the peak, the climax of the other song, which gets you into the middle of the jam, usually."

The Disco Biscuits — which also count among their members Jon Gutwillig, Allen Aucoin and Aron Magner — have always been a bit backwards. Forming at the University

Side projects

Bigger than Biscuits

The members of Disco Biscuits have aspirations outside of the band.

"Our goal is to present things the way they haven't been presented before, and I think ultimately the goal of the guys in the band is to change music and to change the world," Brownstein says.

Case in point: Gutwillig co-founded software company Splice, which helps in the creation and editing of online music.

"He's creating companies on the side that are changing the way people do business. He's continued to take that same idea way into different fields," says Brownstein, who himself co-founded the voter registration movement HeadCount. "We see all these people out there adapting the world for technology and for John, that wasn't enough just to adapt the music for the technology. He wants to adapt everything for the technology."

NEW DIABETES STUDY SHOWS:
*Insulin Shots More Than Double the Risk of DEATH in Type II Diabetics

A new clinical study has shown that the disease of TYPE II DIABETES CAN BEGIN TO BE REVERSED in as little as 1 WEEK!

A free guide has just been made available to Type II Diabetics detailing an approach that appears to be more powerful than any drug known to modern science. The free diabetic guide explains in plain English how many diabetics have been able to reduce and eliminate their drugs and insulin injections, lose weight without exercise, reduce and eliminate the risk for diabetic complications, restore pancreatic function, and even become non-diabetic.

The free guide also reveals rarely used diagnostic testing that is helping doctors understand potential causes of diabetes beyond weight gain, genetics and lack of exercise.

of Pennsylvania in the mid-'90s, they merged progressive rock, jam music, pop excursions and electronica music for a unique blend. Rolling Stone recently put them at No. 26 on its list of the 50 most important people in EDM.

Up next is this year's edition of the City Bisco tour of their hometown.

It's streamlined compared to last year, when they brought in around 20 acts — including Method Man & Redman and Big Boi — over two days at the Mann.

This year they changed the model, focusing instead on having a few big acts join them.

Tortured soul

Rising star. Anger sparked success for BANKS. The mysterious R&B artist tells us about her musical catharsis.

Jillian Banks isn't the first musician to credit her creativity to a tumultuous domestic situation. But the 26-year-old R&B singer who calls herself BANKS says that her parents' divorce when she was a teenager locked up a part of her that only songwriting could free.

"I felt like this person who wanted to scream but didn't have a voice," she says. "I felt mute and completely helpless because I didn't know what to say or how to say what I was feeling. And all of a sudden, all of these weirdly intricate poems were coming out with melodies on top of chords."

The songs on her debut album, "Goddess," which dropped last week, are characterized by their pulsing beats and an anger that runs beneath the surface.

"It was such a blessing to be so angry," she says. "I didn't ever consciously think I really wanted to start writing songs. If I wasn't in such a dark place I wouldn't have been in a weird enough mood to start tinkling about on the piano."

Her writing is emotional and confessional. Take this line in "This Is What It Feels Like": "I caught you off guard / And then when you saw I felt the same / You pulled away." These are lyrics that make sense coming from someone with a degree in psychology.

"My music speaks for itself with what I go through — things that are hard to talk about in real life," she says. "Music is where I feel completely liberated and free to express myself."

Next hype now

Before we ever met her

Banks can count Katy Perry among her fans, and she has had a track on a Victoria's Secret ad. Neither of these achievements would have been possible had BANKS' manager not been bold enough to rip the song "Before I Ever Met You" from her private SoundCloud account and whisk it away to the influential ear of British DJ Zane Lowe, who named her his "next hype" in 2013.

"It was a blessing from the universe," she says of the early recognition. "It kind of gave me that extra little push to be fearless; I would die for him."

Quoted

"I felt like this person who wanted to scream but didn't have a voice. ... And all of a sudden, all of these weirdly intricate poems were coming out with melodies on top of chords." Banks

Social media challenges

Taking it to the BANKS

The marketing for BANKS has been a slow, planned inception: a well-played paradox of hype and mystery. She only recently joined Instagram, while her management handles her Twitter and Facebook. The latter still lists her phone number. "I just didn't feel natural tweeting, and I wanted to do something that felt like me," she says.

Her intangibility has seen Banks craft a persona as a high priestess of dark pop. It's a guise that sees her fans flock to her shows where — dressed in monastic all-black capes and shrouded by smoke — she delivers her songs.

"It's the juiciest feeling that I get from performing," she says, chuckling.

But it's not her lifeblood: "The writing is what I need to survive, mentally."

Broadway shows to see this season

Here are our top picks from among fall's outstanding set of shows. T. MICHELLE MURPHY

1 'On the Town'

A revival of Leonard Bernstein's "On the Town" adds the musical charms of a bygone era to this fall's lineup. The story follows three seamen on shore leave in New York City — having the time of their lives and falling in love. Opens Oct. 16, www.onthetownbroadway.com

2 'This Is Our Youth'

Michael Cera, Kieran Culkin and Tavi Gevinson are the faces of the '80s in "This Is Our Youth," a revival about a young adult who steals $15,000 from his parents and tries to stash it in a drug dealer friend's home. The heist is complicated when a pretty girl with worldly ambitions shows up. Opened Sept. 11; www.thisisouryouthbroadway.com

3 'Love Letters'

This poignant drama involves two old friends, played by Brian Dennehy and Mia Farrow, who have spent the years as pen pals, regaling one another with stories of life and love. With a revolving cast, just a few of the talents set to take over the roles in the future are: Martin Sheen, Carol Burnett, Alan Alda and Candice Bergen. Opened Sept. 18; www.loveletters broadway.com

4 'Disgraced'

Broadway loves a good play about friends and lovers coming together for a dinner party. Ayad Akhtar's "Disgraced," about Muslim-Americans finding their identity on the Upper East Side, won the Pulitzer in 2013 and stars, among others, Gretchen Mol ("Boardwalk Empire") and Josh Radnor ("How I Met Your Mother"). Opens Oct. 23; www.disgracedonbroadway.com

5 'The Country House'

Manhattan Theater Club's "The Country House" is the newest play by David Margulies and the return to the stage for Tony- and Emmy-winner Blythe Danner. Directed by Daniel Sullivan, the play takes a hard look at a family of performers forced into each others' drama at a summer house in the Berkshires. Opens Oct. 2; www.thecountryhouse.com

6 'The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time'

Mark Haddon's best-selling novel by the same name is now onstage. The out-of-the-box drama tells of a young boy (Alexander Sharp) with social limitations who is accused of killing the neighbor's dog. The only way to prove he didn't is to solve the mystery himself. Opens Oct. 5; www.curiousonbroadway.com

7 'It's Only a Play'

This cheeky comedy is about a new show opening on Broadway, with very meta melodrama to follow. The revival brings together Matthew Broderick and Nathan Lane for the first time since "The Producers," with other stars including Megan Mullally and Stockard Channing. It's also the Broadway debut for Rupert Grint ("Harry Potter"). Opens Oct. 9; www.itsonlyaplay.com

8 'You Can't Take It With You'

Starring James Earl Jones and Rose Byrne, who's hitting the Broadway stage for the first time, "You Can't Take It With You" is about the black sheep of an eccentric clan trying to marry a very normal-seeming young man — and how each of their families react to the union. Opens Sept. 28; www.youcantakeitwithyoubroadway.com

9 'The Last Ship'

Musician Sting is the driving force (composer/lyricist) behind one of the season's most anticipated hits: "The Last Ship." Directed by Joe Mantello, this musical tells of the English seaside town of Walland. It questions what happens to those who run away from home — and what happens when they come back to a community that's moved on. Opens Oct. 26; www.thelastship.com

10 'The Real Thing'

Ewan McGregor makes his Broadway debut alongside Cynthia Nixon and Maggie Gyllenhaal in "The Real Thing," which is about a playwright married to his leading lady but falling for a friend. Their lives begin to imitate his stories, and he begins to question what's real. Opens Oct. 30; www.roundabouttheatre.org

Reviews

Gucci

You might have thought you'd been whisked back to the '70s while watching the latest Gucci outing with suede toffee-colored coats, a denim blue jumpsuit, boho dresses and even multicolored furs. Designer Frida Giannini must have gotten nostalgic revisiting her inner '70s child with this collection, as would front-rower and one-time boho girl Kate Moss.

Versace

It was party on for Versace's girls in bold mesh cocktail dresses with flashes of flesh exposed through sheer fabric, cutouts and crop tops. Even the more conservative pieces — short and long black skirts — were sliced and slashed into sassy evening ensembles. Meanwhile, the house's Medusa motif and rings were reinvigorated and reworked into graphic prints.

Dolce & Gabbana

The duo looked to Spain by way of Sicily for their latest collection. And of course you can't "travel" to the Iberian Peninsula without referencing bullfighting and matadors, specifically a red jacket paired with a crisp white shirt — the only minimal piece in an array of carnation prints, embroidery, lacing, bejeweling and polka dot flamenco skirts and dresses. And for the finale, the models paraded out in high-waisted shorts, those crisp white shirts and flats. It certainly got hearts racing to rates worthy of a bullfighting matador.

Jil Sander

It was creative director Rodolfo Paglialunga's first ready-to-wear collection for the house synonymous with minimalism. He showed clothes for a woman who wears polos but who can also be subtly sexy in a leather orange skirt with a deep, provocative split. But it was androgyny that won through with beautifully wrapped skirts, oversized sweaters and the clean, crisp skinny pants.

Roberto Cavalli

If Jil Sander's androgynous minimalism isn't your thing, then step into Cavalli's world. It was all romanticism — the kind of look that Heidi Klum, sitting front row, might well wear in Saint-Tropez. It was typically extravagant Cavalli: '70s-style accordion pleats and psychedelic patterns with animal prints — zebra and leopard — which were occasionally thrown together.

PLUS

Showstopper

Prada

The house is never one to follow the rules, and this season was no different. The very Prada-esque clash of prints brought different eras face-to-face on the catwalk: Seventies geometric meets Marie Antoinette's brocade with knee-high socks that felt reminiscent of the '60s. That said, the mash-up of decades left the audience wondering whether they could take the collection from the runway into real-life. But then again, Prada always seems to turn the unconventional into a must-have fashion thing.

Learn to craft the perfect online dating message

Modern dating. Here's how to make a date actually happen.

Online dating veterans know how easy it is to end up messaging back and forth with someone without ever meeting in real life. We asked Erika Ettin, the author of the book "Love at First Site: Tips and Tales for Online Dating Success From a Modern Day Matchmaker," for her advice on breaking the cycle.

Suggest a date early on

"The fewer the messages the better," says Ettin. "I suggest only having one email back and forth before suggesting to meet."

Don't text

"I would not recommend texting before you meet in person," says Ettin. "It gives you a false sense of intimacy, which creates obstacles to your first date."

Be realistic

Ettin says she sees too many people who go for weeks or months exchanging messages before going on a real date. "I call it having an e-lationship versus having a relationship," Ettin explains.

If you are ever in a situation where you feel like you are chatting endlessly with no end in sight, Ettin says that being blunt is appropriate. "I would say, 'I am really enjoying these emails; why don't we get coffee?'"

The next step is to suggest two possible days for a date.

Brush your shoulders off

Because online dating can be stressful and people can be flaky, Ettin says it's important not to get upset when messages go unanswered. "You can't take it personally," she says.

Love letters

A sample opening message

Let's say you find a profile in which the user mentions that they play tennis. Ettin suggests sending this message:

"Hi! I came across your profile and I thought it was interesting — especially the part where you mention that you play tennis. I used to play, too, but it's been a while. Do you play competitively?"

A friendly question is the perfect way to spark a conversation.

Inspired by Italy

Hot chef. Are Chris Painter and Stephen Starr ready to open another restaurant?

You could call Chef Chris Painter Stephen Starr's right-hand man. Alongside the prolific restaurateur, Painter is the co-owner of il Pittore in Rittenhouse Square. Previously, he was the culinary advisor for Starr Restaurants, which means he oversaw nearly everything. We spoke to Painter about his latest menu at the Italian restaurant — and learned about his possible future endeavors.

You launched a tasting menu that uses locally sourced ingredients. What are some of the less obvious benefits of buying from Pennsylvania and New Jersey farms?
To me, first and foremost, it's the quality. You don't get that when you use produce from all over. I can call a farm on Tuesday to make an order, they'll harvest on Wednesday and I'll get it on Thursday. It's almost like having your own giant farm where you can pick produce in the evening and use it in the morning. Then, of course, there's the fact that it's more eco-friendly since things aren't being shipped so far.

If you go

You've known Starr for years now. Is it safe to say that you guys are buds, or is it just business?
It's not just business at this point. I came in 1999 when Stephen had two restaurants. [He now has a restaurant empire from New York City to Florida.] After five years, I left the company for about four years and then came back. We became friends over those years.

Before il Pittore opened you took a trip to Italy for inspiration. Now where do you look for inspiration?
There's a possibility that we'll run a trip in the future and take people over to Italy for a food and wine tour. We'll go to super high-end, really cool places.

Bonus question

Up next

Any plans to open another restaurant?

I would like to. Stephen and I talked about it, talked about different concepts. Maybe I'd do something more southern Italian. We're pretty northern here, a little more rustic. What most Americans think of when they think of Italian is southern Italian.

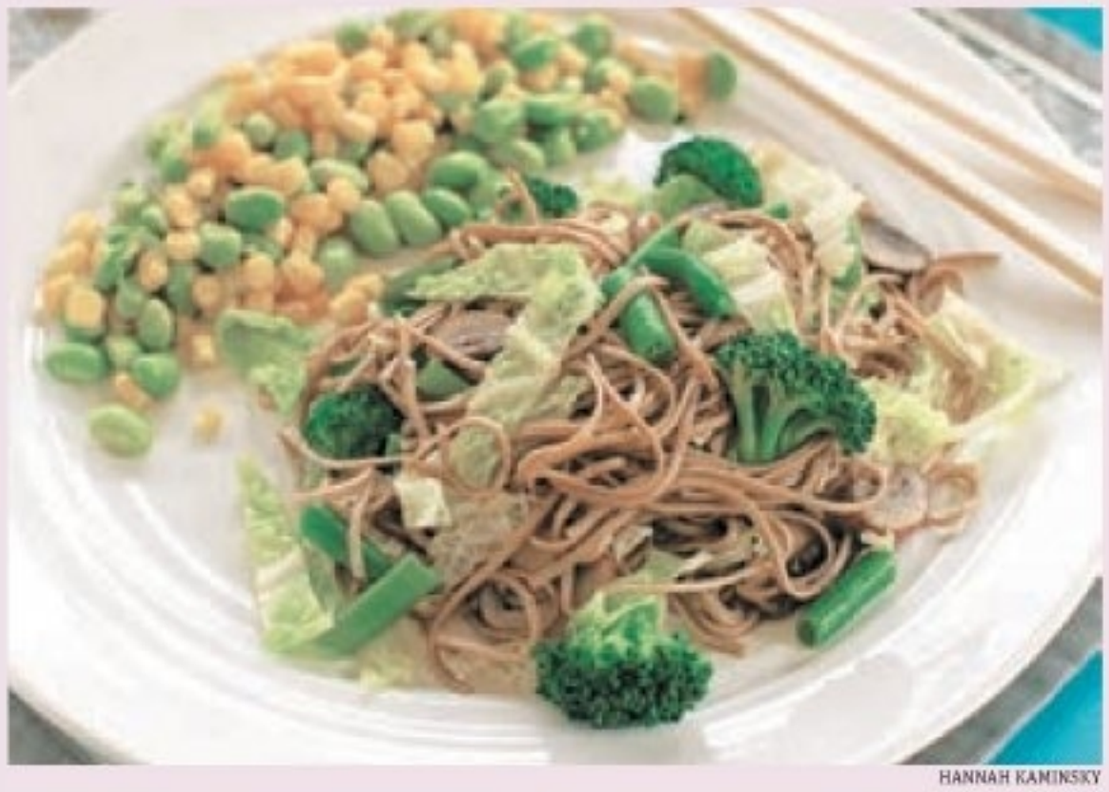
Recipe



HANNAH KAMINSKY

Nava Atlas's Lo Mein

Serves: 4 to 6

Ingredients

- 8 ounces udon or soba, preferably whole grain
- 1 tablespoon safflower or other high-heat oil or 3 tablespoons vegetable broth or water
- 2 teaspoons dark sesame oil (optional but recommended)
- ½ small head green or Napa cabbage, cut into long, narrow ribbons
- 2 cups small broccoli florets
- 2 cups fresh green beans, trimmed and cut in half
- 1 cup sliced mushrooms (optional)
- 3 to 4 scallions, white and green parts cut into 1-inch segments
- Vegetable broth or water for moistening
- Reduced-sodium natural soy sauce or tamari to taste
- Freshly ground pepper to taste

Directions

1 Cook the noodles according to package directions in plenty of rapidly simmering water until al dente. Drain.

2 Meanwhile, heat the safflower oil, broth or water and 1 teaspoon of the sesame oil (if desired) in a stir-fry pan. Add the cabbage, broccoli and green beans. Cover and cook for 2 to 3 minutes.

3 Add the mushrooms, if desired, and scallions and stir-fry over medium-high heat for 5 minutes or until the vegetables are just tender-crisp. Add a small amount of vegetable broth or water, just enough to keep the pan moist.

4 Add the cooked noodles to the stir-fry pan and toss together. Add the remaining teaspoon of sesame oil, if using, then season with soy sauce and pepper to taste. Serve at once.

Pro tip

Substitute 8 ounces of preshredded coleslaw (preferably with carrots included) for the green or Napa cabbage if you're in a hurry. Fresh, slender green beans are hard to come by for much of the year, so I give you my full blessing to use frozen organic whole baby green beans, which are consistently excellent — and also save you the time and trouble of trimming the ends.

Cooking. Vegan restaurants are hot in Philly. This recipe from Nava Atlas of VegKitchen.com lets you try out the trend at home.

Herbivores are having their day in our cheesesteak-lovin' town, with a new vegan spot or menu with vegan options popping up everywhere we look.

We're sitting down to seitan and smoked tofu fajitas at Cantina Los Caballitos on East Passyunk Avenue, grabbing takeout at one of Nicole Marquis's two HipCityVeg locations and sipping from the inventive cocktail list at Marquis' Charlie Was a Sinner in the Gayborhood. And of course there's the nationally lauded, upscale Vedge at 12th and Locust, from husband-and-wife team Rich Landau and Kate Jacoby, and their upcoming V Street, opening in Rittenhouse next month.

"Philadelphia has long been one of the great champions of vegan cuisine and plant-based eaters, from nationally renowned vegan restaurants to an array of markets offering the best ingredients for home cooks," says Nava Atlas, the cook behind Veg Kitchen.com and the new book "Plant Power."

But Atlas isn't a veggie snob. "With so many choices for individuals to make, the most successful food scenes are the ones that are inclusive," she says. "Their primary goal isn't all or nothing, vegan or bust."

Music

Lydia Loveless

Thursday, 8 p.m.
Milkboy Philly
1100 Chester St.
$10, 21+; 877-987-6487
www.ticketfly.com
Country music seems to be dissolving ever more into sentimental pop, but Lydia Loveless is intent on recovering the genre's dark, dangerous side, filling her lyrics with tales of boozing and small-town misery, her strong alto voice projecting beyond its 24 years. Comparisons to Neko Case, voice-wise, are inevitable, but for our money, Loveless is far more bad-ass.

Rebellum

Saturday, 8 p.m.
Painted Bride Art Center
230 Vine St.
$25-$30, 215-925-9914
www.paintedbride.org
This nine-member funk/rock group, composed of select members of Burnt Sugar Arkestra, lays down a spaced-out but fully aware groove that reaches back to the heady '70s and into the future all at once — how do they accomplish this paradoxical feat? They just got it like that. Now stop asking questions and start gettin' down already.

Opera

'The Barber of Seville'

Friday through Oct. 5
Academy of Music
240 S. Broad St.
$19-$239, 215-893-3600
www.operaphila.org
Opera Philadelphia presents Rossini's enduring comic opera, one of the few works in the classical canon to receive the supreme honor of a "Looney Tunes" parody. The roguish Figaro, hatching a scheme to help his buddy Almaviva get the obligatory girl, doesn't seem too far from today's comedy heroes — something this production's more modern set design might make it easier to envision.

Theater

'La Bete'

Through Oct. 12
Arden Theatre Company
40 N. Second St.
$43-$48, 215-922-1122
www.ardentheatre.org
In this comedy by David Hirson, the members of a French acting company in the 1600s find more than they bargained for when they bring a raucous street performer into their ranks. "Le Bete" is French for "The Beast," but it's also used to mean "fool," and the audience is made to wonder who is a greater fool — this crude newcomer or the company's foppish, high-minded leader?

MARK GARVIN

Theater

'King Lear'

Through Saturday
Annenberg Center
3680 Walnut St.
$20-$55, 215-898-3900
www.annenbergcenter.org
Straight from the U.K. comes this Shakespeare's Globe Theater production of The Bard's royal tragedy, starring Joseph Marcell, who played the sly butler Geoffrey on "The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air." There won't be too many laughs coming from him in this role, however, since Lear is one of Shakespeare's most broken characters, lost in illusions even before his mind goes.

This daylong outdoor conference has plenty of options for the nature lover, from guided hikes to talks and workshops on botany, birds, butterflies and other lovely topics. The Center will also present its Henry Meigs Award for Environmental Leadership to ecological scientist Ann F. Rhoads.

Art

Virgil Marti: 'Forest Park'

Through Oct. 18
Locks Gallery
600 Washington Sq. South
Free, 215-629-1000
www.locksgallery.com
Local artist Virgil Marti brings together new and older, re-contextualized items for this show, continuing his interest in romanticism and notions of the sublime throughout history; previous shows have explored connections between the British Romantics, such as Keats, with the hippies of the 1960s. The objects here include textile prints, imaginative furniture pieces and "looking glasses," which are far from ordinary mirrors.

Part of the reason Jack the Ripper remains such a powerful bogeyman is that his true identity has never been established. Researcher Jeffrey L. Mudgett believes he's solved the case, however: Jack, he says, was H.H. Holmes, an American contemporary whose murder spree at the 1893 Chicago World's Fair still shocks today. How could it be? He'll explain at this lecture.

This comedy show is based on the early TV game show of the same name, later revived on Nickelodeon in the late '90s as "Figure It Out." The premise is, a panel of comedians has to figure out the occupation of the special guest, asking only "yes or no" questions, which turns out to be surprisingly, and amusingly, difficult.

Coffee houses have traditionally been venues for sensitive acoustic singer-songwriters, not contemporary dance, but that's just what the SomaticMovers are bringing to Square One Coffee this weekend. The local troupe performs dances that start from the natural movement of the body, exploring and aiming to improve the connection between body and mind, both for their dancers and their audience. Horoscope

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. You have the ability to influence others to do things your way. Once you have determined what you need, initiate a discussion.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. You will waste time if you are bouncing back and forth between different tasks. Formulate a concrete plan.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. An unusual pathway will reveal itself via a new acquaintance. You will reap the benefits from something you've been working on for a long time.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 20. There will be tension in your relationships. Rather than try to influence those around you, let them do their own thing. Occupy yourself with a project.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb. 18. A partnership with someone you admire will produce lucrative results. Be ready to act when the opportunity arises.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. Practical matters will keep you busy. Save yourself some anguish by clearing up health or legal issues as soon as they crop up.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. If you feel something needs to be said, speak up. Your frankness may catch a colleague off-guard, but people admire honesty.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Be optimistic, and leave the past behind. Focus on the positive people and activities in your life, and reject negative thoughts.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. Unfamiliar surroundings will spark your creative imagination and influence your way of thinking. A novel direction appears to be possible.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. Don't rush into a delicate situation. Remain in control and try to find an arrangement that will be agreeable.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. You'll be distressed about business deals. Don't confide in a close friend when going to an experienced source for advice is what's required.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22. If you investigate an interesting career possibility, you could find a way to instigate some motion. It's up to you to make things happen. EUGENIA LAST

Climate action needed now

Re: 'We're mortal, so no point in complaining' (Metro, Sept. 24) To letter writer Bill Bowers, I will simply say this: The dinosaurs likely didn't go around asking for an estimated seven-mile-long meteor to hit Earth, which resulted in their extinction. Humans, by contrast, appear hell-bent on poisoning the atmosphere and planet to the point where it will become uninhabitable for our own children. To paraphrase Professor Neil DeGrasse Tyson, the dinosaurs couldn't see it coming, but humanity (including Mr. Bowers) can. We have no excuse for not acting more responsibly. Myself, I expect better of us and work to set the example.
JOSEPH CONNELL, VIA EMAIL

Reducing CO2 emissions is not a solution to climate change. Adding less CO2 to the atmosphere means making it worse more slowly. That's better than making it worse faster, but worse more slowly is still worse. We need to take CO2 out of the atmosphere. Or make the surface of the planet more reflective. Or facilitate atmospheric heat transport Or deal with the effects of climate change. Or all of the above. Right now, we need to do the research, and then we can put a rational price on emissions.

Questions abound as 76ers start camp

NBA. The Sixers head to training camp next week totally transformed from this time last season.

Nerlens Noel, if healthy, will help the Sixers play better defense this season. / GETTY IMAGES

For the first time in many years, the Sixers will have themselves a very interesting training camp when it comes to position battles on the court.

As long as they're healthy, Michael Carter-Williams and Nerlens Noel seem to have firmly secured their starting jobs, but others will be dueling it out when camp gets underway next week.

Carter-Williams, the reigning Rookie of the Year, will get the starting nod at point guard, but it's still unknown whether coach Brett Brown will decide to run Noel at the center or power forward spot at the start of the season.

The competition for the starting shooting guard spot will likely be between Hollis Thompson and Tony Wroten, but veteran Jason Richardson figures to be in the mix as well if he's finally healthy.

Thompson started 41 games last season for the Sixers, averaging six points and 3.2 rebounds per game. Wroten, who started only 16 games, averaged 13 points, 3.2 rebounds and three assists. Thompson shined however at Orlando Pro Summer League, averaging 13 points, eight rebounds and 3.2 assists in four games.

Small forward and whichever position Noel doesn't play will be the other two spots to keep an eye on during training camp.

Rookie K.J. McDaniels will likely start at small forward, unless Brown thinks Thompson's experience and offensive capabilities might overshadow McDaniels' defensive potential. If Noel starts at center, it will be interesting to see the battle between Arnett Moultrie, Ronald Roberts Jr. and Jerami Grant for the power forward spot. If Noel starts at power forward, Henry Sims will likely man the paint at center.

Training camp will be held at Stockton College in Galloway, New Jersey, from Sept. 30 through Saturday, Oct. 4.

By the numbers

109.9

The Sixers allowed the most points per game (109.9) of any of the 30 teams in the NBA.

Preseason slate

The preseason begins Oct. 6, when the Sixers head to TD Bank Garden.

- In addition to two games at home, and visits to Brooklyn, Minnesota and Detroit, the 76ers face the Knicks in Syracuse, New York, and the Magic in Allentown, Pennsylvania.

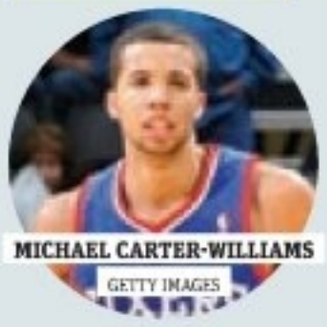
Best rookie returns



MICHAEL CARTER-WILLIAMS
GETTY IMAGES

MCW enters Sixers camp as most reliable veteran

In every sport, there's always going to be rumblings of a sophomore slump after a player performs tremendously in his rookie season.

Can he do it again? Was it a fluke?

These are common questions many ask pertaining to the subject and they're questions which many are asking right now for the Sixers 2014 Rookie of the Year Michael Carter-Williams. He averaged 16.7 points, 6.2 rebounds, 6.3 assists and 1.9 steals on his way to winning the prestigious award. But, he is coming off shoulder surgery and arguably has a worse supporting cast surrounding him this season.

His points may go up slightly, but with Hollis Thompson and Tony Wroten as the only other offensive threats to pass the ball to and with Nerlens Noel corralling rebounds, It's unlikely that Carter-Williams can keep up the same output in those categories. It's also unknown just how much the shoulder injury affects him. For an already bad shooter who scores most of his points at the rim, he may have some issues staying consistent offensively if his shoulder still causes him any trouble.

Carter-Williams is a good player, but it's unrealistic to think he can top what he did in 2013-14 with the hand he's been dealt this season. JEFF MCMENAMIN

Baker not sorry

Redskins pass-rusher Chris Baker said he had no intention of apologizing to Nick Foles, or anyone after his questionable hit on the Eagles quarterback Sunday. Troy Vincent, the NFL's executive vice president of football operations, said he didn't even think the hit was illegal, and said neither Baker nor eagles offensive tackle Jason Peters would be fined or suspended.

Tweeted

"If QB is pursuing play, he is considered potential tackler & can be blocked. He was moving toward play and, therefore, open to being blocked"

Kelly says fans admire toughness

NFL. After last week's display of resiliency, Chip Kelly thinks Nick Foles will be embraced.

Nick Foles got beat up pretty badly by the Redskins defense last Sunday.

And according to Eagles head coach Chip Kelly, nothing could endear him more to the Philadelphia fans (aside from perhaps a Super Bowl title).

"You look at just what this building is like when Brian Dawkins shows back up," Kelly said. "There is an admiration for someone that's just a tough, hard-nosed football player."

Foles leads the NFL in passing with nearly 1,000 yards. / GETTY IMAGES

None of what Foles demonstrated when he got up, dusted himself off and made the defense pay a few plays later with a game-tying touchdown pass really shows up in the stat book. But it resonates among everyone in the huddle and on the sidelines.

"I think you've got to respect Nick," Kelly said. "I've said it all along. I saw him do it in college. We hit the heck out of him when we were at Oregon and he played at Arizona, and he just kept getting up and throwing and standing in there. I think it's a very underrated quality for a quarterback."

NFL. Foles, Maclin developing chemistry on and off the field

Over the last 10 games that Jeremy Maclin and Nick Foles have played together, the two have combined for 53 receptions, 775 yards and six touchdowns.

Fresh off a 100-plus yard receiving day where he was clearly Foles' favorite target, it is becoming apparent the two are in absolute sync this season.

"I think all those relationships are constantly growing," Eagles head coach Chip Kelly said. "They seem to have a little bit of connection even before I got here. You know, Nick's rookie season when he played for Mike [Vick] and Jeremy was really healthy and they had a neat connection going on then."

The two were obviously on hiatus during 2013, when Maclin was out recovering from ACL surgery but the two have gotten back to work right where they left off.

"I think it's obviously something we need to continue to grow," Kelly said. "We've still left meat on the bone. There have been some times when we've missed Jeremy a couple of times. He's really been open in all three games we've played. I don't know if we've gotten him the ball enough, to be honest with you."

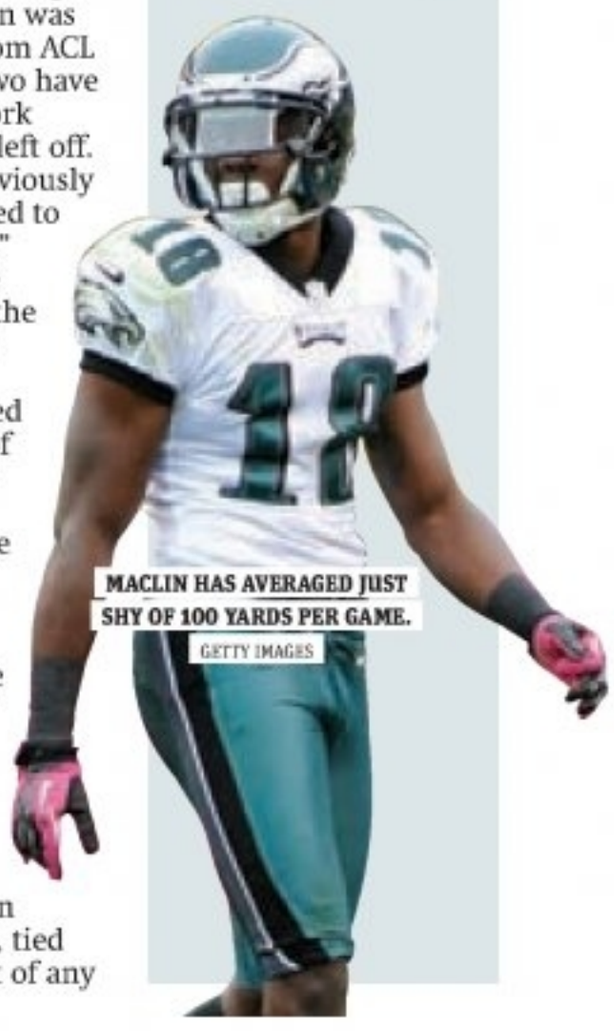
The Eagles have certainly targeted Maclin a considerable amount. In three games he has been targeted 32 times, tied for the sixth most of any wide receiver in football.

Of those targets, he has caught 16 passes for 296 yards and three touchdowns. EVAN MACY

Return of the Mac

Maclin has dusted off the rust pretty well in his first three games since 2012.

- Maclin's 296 yards receiving is tied for fifth most in the NFL so far this season.
- He has four catches for more than 20 yards, second to only Zach Ertz on the Eagles roster.
- His receptions have accounted for 13 first downs, more than any receiver on the Eagles.



MACLIN HAS AVERAGED JUST SHY OF 100 YARDS PER GAME.

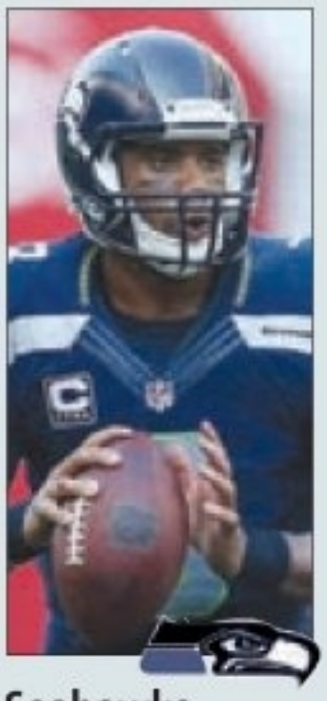
NFL power rankings | by Matt Burke

No. 1



Seahawks (2-1)

Yes, the Seahawks gave up 17 fourth-quarter points at home Sunday. And yes, people are actually throwing at Richard Sherman again. But if your life was on the line, would you really pick the Broncos or Bengals over Seattle at a neutral site?

No. 2

Broncos (2-1)

We're absolutely sure that Peyton Manning is 38 years old, right? Any "Manning birthers" out there with me? A guy his age shouldn't be so good.

No. 3

Bengals (3-0)

This may be seen as disrespect. But is what they've done — a seven-point win over Baltimore and two home wins — really that impressive?

No. 4

Cardinals (3-0)

How impressive does Arizona's Week 1 win over San Diego look now? We'll see what happens when Carson Palmer is back.

No. 5

Eagles (3-0)

Receivers Jeremy Maclin, Jordan Matthews and Riley Cooper are all capable of 100-yard receiving days with Nick Foles at the helm. But can the defense hold up?

No. 6

Chargers (2-1)

San Diego could very well be atop these rankings by mid-October. The Chargers have easy games at home against the Jaguars and Jets in the next two weeks.

No. 7

Bears (2-1)

After losing at home to the Bills to open the season, Chicago has won night games at San Francisco and at the Jets. You figure it out.

No. 8

Falcons (2-1)

Atlanta put up 56 points at home to Tampa Bay and totaled only 10 points on the road against the Bengals.

No. 9

Ravens (2-1)

Baltimore has played three division games to start the year and it has come out of it 2-1. Not bad at all. Even wide receiver Steve Smith looks good.

No. 10

Bills (2-1)

Were we fooled by Buffalo's traditional September surge? Maybe. They have winnable games at Houston and Detroit, which should answer some questions.

No. 11

Steelers (2-1)

We heard it all preseason: Ben Roethlisberger. Contract year. He finished with a rating of 112.6 in Pittsburgh's blowout road victory Sunday.

No. 12

Panthers (2-1)

So much for that vaunted Carolina defense. Le'Veon Bell and LeGarrette Blount smoked the Panthers "D" Sunday night.

No. 13

Lions (2-1)

Detroit is one of the tougher teams to figure out. The Lions offense looked great against the Giants but Matthew Stafford has struggled ever since.

No. 14

Patriots (2-1)

There's no doubt Oakland would have gone for two and won the game in the final minute against the Patriots had it not been for a holding penalty.

DEADLINE: 2 BUSINESS DAYS PRIOR TO PUBLICATION AT 6 PM.

Have you been diagnosed with post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD)? Are you still suffering frequent and severe symptoms?

If you or someone you know is currently suffering from PTSD, you/they may be interested in taking part in a clinical research study looking at a potential new treatment (an investigational medication) for adults with PTSD. The study is looking at whether the investigational medication improves the symptoms of PTSD when added to a commercially available, approved medication.

To be able to take part in this study, you must:
- be 18–65 years of age (inclusive)
- have been diagnosed with PTSD and still have frequent and severe symptoms
- have been experiencing PTSD symptoms for at least 3 months.

The event that triggered your symptoms must have occurred within the past 15 years.

All study participants will receive study-related care and will be monitored closely throughout the study. Study-related medication and all study-related assessments will be provided at no cost to you.

If you would like to help us evaluate a potential new treatment for PTSD by taking part in this study, please contact
